

GIS studentships and work-experience

New Zealand Ecological Restoration Network (NZERN) has ongoing GIS training opportunities available for students using ESRI software. The work is unpaid and is designed to be useful to both the student and conservation. Students seeking short projects, work experience and internships are welcome to apply. NZERN is a national non-profit conservation organization based in Christchurch and is run by volunteers.

The opportunities available include the mapping of ecological restoration sites, cartography and presentation posters, analysis, and advanced work involving ArcSDE and ArcIMS.

For more information Lincoln University students can contact:

Lincoln University – Environment Society & Design:

Dr Brad Case 03 325-3838 extn 8909

CaseB@lincoln.ac.nz

NZERN:

Mike Peters 03 9800-902 office@bush.org.nz

www.bush.org.nz/nzern/internship/